Sub-freezing temperatures sent Pennsylvania into overcoats, mittens and overshoes again today as a week-long pre-winter siege of cold saw the mercury sink to new lows.
At least three persons were dead and a fourth was missing as the state continued to shiver.

bearing rendezvous during the night

Official temperature record

although many thermometers around the city and district, registered a couple of degrees lower. It was the coldest Nov-

many years.

and sent temperatures to 50-year record lows. Not since 1885, has there been a November 15 so cold in the Pittsburgh and Western Pennsylvania areas.
Eastern Pennsylvania fared a little better.

Over Wide Area
The same cold spell which puts its needle-point chills through overcoats and sweaters in the western districts of the state was being felt from the Atlantic seaboard far into the middle west with the center being very near the Ohio-Pennsylvania border.

In the eastern sections of the state, although temperatures were somewhat higher, the mercury sank to teeth-chattering lows.

Northwestern Pennsylvania was in the grasp of a blizzard during the night and a driving snowstorm continued to beat the section today.
Highway patrolmen issued warnings to motorists to keep off roads if possible.

PA NEW OBSERVES

Early advent of real winter weather brought a drop in temperatures here, during the night, some thermometers registering as low as 12 above zero.

Heavy snow of the night drifted badly in many sections of the city and county, requiring a lot of work to keep the highways open for traffic.

City street department employees were busy downtown this morning, hauling ice and snow off the streets.
Especially were the gutters being cleared, where they were filled with ice and snow to the top of the curb in some places.

Here is one for Ripley. Tuesday
as Sam Filippo was opening oysters in the Rendezvous Cafe, Moravia street, a fish three inches long jumped out of an oyster shell as he flipped the shell open. In addition to the fish there was an oyster in the shell also. The fish was put in water and lived until late last night

It May Snow And Snow But Where Does It Go

This might be titled, the mystery of the disappearing snow, this little probe into the scientific world. It involves the amount of snow which fell Tuesday afternoon and evening.

Around three o'clock Tuesday afternoon, following the small blizzard which swept the district, the writer measured the snow which had fallen on the Post Office lawn, accross from The News Office, and it was found to be three and one-half inches.

Last evening, it snowed some more, considerably more as most everyone will agree, particularly if he had been out driving along a country road in an automobile.

This morning, the writer again measured the snow in the same spot, and round it measured but half an inch more. Last night, when he swept off his walk at 11:30 o'clock there was an accumulation of several inches. He had swept it previously about 8 o'clock in the evening.
This morning, the U. S. weather observer found his rain gauge showing eighteen-hundredths of an inch of precipitation, after it had been melted down. This is equivalent to one and eight-tenth inches of snow.

Fate Of Russo-American Re-

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15.—After another conference between President Roosevelt and Maxim Litvinoff, Soviet foreign commissar, it was indicated at the White House today that American recognition of the Soviet Union is still uncertain.

Although it was announced that the conversations were proceeding "normally" and will "continue" reporters were cautioned against predicting an understanding on recognition by Friday.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15.—The fate of the Russo-American conference today hung in the balance as Maxim Litvinoff, the Soviet Foreign Commissar, awaited word from Moscow as to whether he should concede President Roosevelt's demand that all outstanding questions be settled in advance of American recognition of the Soviet Union.

Although the White House still expressed hope an understanding would be reached by the end of the week, it was learned there is no assurance the discussions will be concluded by that time.
All depends upon whether Moscow permits Litvinoff to negotiate

Ohio Officers Take Custody Of Natale At Noon

Man Arrested Here For Ohio
Crime, Goes To Ohio
Without Extradition

Frank Natale, 41, seventh ward, this city, held in connection with the fatal stabbing of Steve Tommaso, 42, at Struthers, O., November 4, is in the Mahoning county, O., jail, having been returned there without extradition papers today. He had been held in the city jail here since his capture Sunday.

Sheriff Englehard of Mahoning county, Assistant Prosecuting Attorney Turner and Police Chief H. D.
Davis, the latter of Struthers, today brought to New Castle an affidavit signed by a "Miss Betty Reed" which was shown to Natale's counsel, Attorney S. L. Clarke.

In the affidavit Natale is said to have been one of the three persons involved in the alleged quarrel with Tommaso.

After studying the affidavit Clarke agreed to permit the return of the prisoner to Ohio without forcing the Ohio authorities to go through the formality of obtaining extradition papers.

The attorney said that "the affidavit, in my opinion, is 'flimsy' but I do not wish to stand upon technicalities and I have advised Natale to return to Ohio."
Natale accepted the advice of his counsel and he was returned at noon in custody of the Ohio authorities.

JUST AN INCIDENT IN MORNING HOURS

A man clad in overalls, with a snow shovel over his shoulder, stepped briskly and eagerly over North Hill streets early this morning. His step indicated hopefulness, willingness and ambition. For, was there not work to be done? And, if he worked long enough, and hard enough, it would mean something to those back home and it would mean something to himself, to his pride.

After going from house to house, street to street, and finding that no one was interested in having the snow shoveled from the sidewalk, the step grew heavier, as did the heart.
It was just an incident. May not have meant much. And

Find Janish Had Fractured Skull

Investigation Is Being Made Into Death Of Man By Coroner Potter

BELIEVE INJURY RECEIVED IN FALL

George Janish, also known as George Jarosz, who died in the Jameson Memorial hospital Tuesday morning, after he had been removed there from the city jail during the night, was found to have had a fractured skull.

According to information Coroner Potter has received, Janish had been drinking heavily for some little time.
When he was brought to the police station, it was thought he was badly intoxicated. During the night, other complications developed and Dr. W. D. Cleland, county physician, was summoned. He ordered Janish taken to the hospital.

After he had died, an autopsy was performed by Dr. Cleland, showing he had a fractured skull. This is believed to have resulted from a fall while the man was in an intoxicated condition. Coroner Potter is still investigating the case.

Jewelry Store Window Robbed

Perelman's Store Window
Broken And Jewelry
Stolen Last Night

For the third time within a year the J. F. Perelman jewelry store display window, East Washington street was burglarized early this morning and the thieves escaped with several hundred dollars worth of watches and probably some rings.
A complete checkup had not yet been made, at noon.

The burglars, believed to be two,
smashed one of the glass windows in the vestibule with a stone, reached through the hole and seized the boxes which contained the watches and perhaps some rings.

It is believed they are the men who occupied a coupe which sped through West Washington street about 2:10 a. m. The auto stopped at the intersection of Shenango street. Several empty boxes were thrown from the machine, believed to be jewelry boxes. The car then went north in Shenango street, the police were told.

This is the third robbery during a year at Perelman's, two burglars having occurred there last fall, according to J. F. Perelman.

White House Extends Olive Branch To Smith

By GEORGE R. HOLMES
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15.—A large branch well freighted with olives was extended in the direction of Alfred E. Smith today from the White House.

President Roosevelt has made two significant gestures toward a rapprochement with the man whom he labeled the "Happy Warrior" and thrice placed in nomination for the presidency and the man who opposed his own nomination in 1932.

The first and most significant of these gestures was the appointment of Smith's friends, James J. Hoey, as internal revenue collector in New York.

The second was to invite the former governor to the White House.
Al came and a pleasant time was had. Political affairs were not discussed, nor was the NRA, nor the Roosevelt monetary policy, concerning which Smith has been critically skeptical in his recent writings. It was a social visit, the first they have had in many political moods.

The olive branch gesture to Smith was made all the more pointed by the fact that John F. Curry, leader of Tammany Hall, was in Washington for several days just prior to Smith's arrival. Curry was not invited to the White House, and if the administration or any of its parts vealed that Disher had received a broken right arm, and is to be re-

William H. Woodin will take an indefinite leave of absence from his cabinet post,
and Henry Morgenthau, Jr., will be appointed acting sec-

The reasons prompting Woodin to retire from the treasury, it was said, concern his health. He is suffering from a chronic throat infection and has been away from Washington for some weeks.

Dean Acheson of Maryland, who has been under secretary of the treasury, is also retiring, it was announced, as he desires to return to private business.

Secretary Woodin submitted his resignation to President Roosevelt

CAPTURED GANG FACING MANY CHARGES

Notorious Gang Under Arrest

State Police And McKeesport Officers Arrest Four Young Desperadoes

Confessions Made Following Dramatic Capture In Cellar Of Glassport Home

(International News Service) MCKEESPORT, Pa., Nov. 15.—Ray Patrick and three members of his notorious "Wild West" gang were behind bars at Greensburg today after a round-up by state and local police last night at Glassport.

The quartet, whose arrest yielded a miniature arsenal, will have to answer for a variety of crimes ranging from post office robbery to petty larceny. Police said they confessed to 25 daring exploits.

Accomplices of the youthful gang leader were described as Antonio Grygo, 26, Detroit; Nick Winowitch, 25, Port Vue; and Earl Layton, 22, of McKeesport.

Victim Tortured. The gang is accused of torturing J. W. Saylor, an aged recluse, when they learned he had a large sum of money hidden in his cabin at Dunbar. They stole automobiles, bound and robbed a camping sextet and had a running battle with police over mountain roads.

After the latter escapade, William Merdith and Calvin Russell, members of the gang, were arrested and given long penitentiary terms. Police said the quartet arrested last night confessed to robbing the Port Vue post office last September 19 and of burglarizing the rectory of the Rev. V. A. O'Hara at Glassport while he was celebrating mass.

Trapped In Cellar. Cornered in the cellar of a Glassport house which officers surrounded, Patrick shouted: "Don't shoot; I'll give up!"

On arriving at the police station, the gang leader blurted: "It's a good thing I didn't have a gun; I never gave in to a cop before."

IT MAY SNOW & SNOW BUT WHERE DOES IT GO

Now, there isn't one person in New Castle, the writer included, who would not swear that at least four inches of snow had fallen, on top of what was found when he got up yesterday morning, yet the measurements show differently.

The explanation offered by the weather observer is that the snow packs down after it has lain a while. Light, fluffy snow, such as fell during the late afternoon and evening, might seem to amount to a great deal more than it really does. After it has lain a while, it will pack down considerably.

Around four inches of snow is to be found on the ground this morning, which is still a lot of snow. But in actual precipitation, melted down to water, there was only eighteen-hundredths of an inch, since nine o'clock Tuesday morning.

an indefinite leave of absence. To that, Woodin assented.

Will Return. President Roosevelt emphasized that Woodin will return to his post as soon as his health permits.

The secretary will leave here the last of this week for Arizona for an extended stay. At his own request, the White House stated, Woodin will not receive his cabinet salary.

No successor has yet been chosen for Morgenthau as head of the farm credit administration.

The retirement of Secretary Woodin, even though temporary, marks the first break in the Roosevelt official family since it took office last March.

Many Rumors. His long absences from Washington undergoing treatment for his throat have led to frequently recurring rumors that he would resign, and rumors that he was out of sympathy with the president's fiscal policies. These were always promptly denied, sometimes by the White House and at other times by Secretary Woodin himself.

Only last Monday he issued a vigorous denial of published reports that he did not approve of the Roosevelt gold-purchase policy. On the contrary, he said, this policy had the full support of himself and the whole treasury department.

Morgenthau, who now assumes the treasury helm for an indefinite period, has long been one of Mr. Roosevelt's close friends and advisers. His father was ambassador to Turkey in the Wilson administration.

New Treasury Head. The new treasury head is one of the youngest men ever to hold the post. He is in his 42d year.

According to his acceptance of the chairmanship of the new farm credit administration, Morgenthau was conservation commissioner in New York. In who's who he lists his occupation as a publisher, he has headed a publication called the American Agriculturist for the past ten years.

Acheson has been under secretary of the treasury since last March. He was a Maryland lawyer, without general banking experience, and he has had to carry a rather heavy load at times during the frequent absences of Woodin. It was emphasized at the White House that retirement implied no element of criticism of his work. He will return to his law practice.

Hunter Is Missing. Fear that Harry Mattison, 37, a Ludlow, Pa., hunter, was dead in the woods near Kane, in the northwest section of the state, sent more than 100 men into the forest in an effort to find him. Mattison has been missing since Monday, woodsman fear they will not be able to locate the man, if he is dead, until a thaw, because of the drifts which have piled up.

More than six inches of snow blown into the northwest section of the state packed to a depth of two and three feet from Franklin to Kane.

Neal Carr, 40, of McKeesport, was found lying in a street in that city today suffering seriously from exposure.

Warmer Thursday. Sunshine pierced clouds today—the first time in seven days in many parts of the state. Slightly warmer weather was expected tomorrow.

There is no danger of the ship sinking, according to reports and efforts will be made to take the vessel off the sandbar today.

Snow Plows Busy. Snow plows and cinder crews were busy on state highways as efforts were made to keep traffic moving.

All roads in every direction from Pittsburgh were reported covered with ice. Chains were advised and extreme caution again recommended.

Flying conditions in the southern half of the state were greatly improved with clear skies generally and good ceilings and visibilities.

Snow flurries were reported by the airport weather bureau in Pittsburgh in the vicinity of Laurel Ridge, near Ligonier, Westmoreland county.

Scores Of Accidents. Scores of automobile accidents were reported on the ice-covered streets and highways.

Joseph Breen, 24, of near Stearnsville, Westmoreland county, died in McKeesport hospital last night after a long illness.

The accident was indirectly attributed to the weather.

Three other deaths in Kane since the winter-like cold wave obliterated the summer were due indirectly to the storm and swelled the death toll to seven.

STATE SENATE APPROVES BILL FOR RECOVERY

amendments to the beer acts and taxation on hard liquor, while the McClure control plan passed first reading. The House then adjourned until tomorrow, when the five measures will come up for final passage.

Only one change was made in the text of bills. Representative William McElwee, Lawrence, with consent of the House, amended the Zimmerman bill amending the beer act so that the results of local option at last week's election shall not be offset by provisions of the new measure.

Objection was raised at the caucus by representatives from the larger cities to provisions of the control bill prohibiting the old-fashioned beer in private clubs. They contended a club is a "man's second home" and he should be permitted to have a bar if he so chooses.

Representative Joseph C. Steele, Allegheny, led a group from the urban districts, which voiced opposition to state stores.

Seek Hasty Action. Political observers regard this partial endorsement as indications that the Republican organization, lacking a program of its own, is willing to carry out the recommendations of the governor to satisfy the general cry for hasty liquor legislation. The control bill appears to be the only one facing a battle and sentiment may change over the week-end. Under existing plans the bill will receive a test Monday night.

Experiences with beer bills last winter have convinced leaders they will get nowhere with measures patterned after the Brooks high license law, which the governor will veto.

Consequently the administration liquor bills gained the favor of committee men in preference to three documents empowering judges to issue licenses. Democrats, with their "watchful waiting" policy, have remained silent during the liquor deliberations.

Republican leaders have agreed to push through the House this week five bills. They are the Witkin bill for a permanent tax of $1 per proof gallon; 30 cents per rectified gallon; and one cent per unit of proof wine in gallons on liquors manufactured or imported after repeal; the Cor-dier bill for a $2 per proof gallon tax on all liquor manufactured or stored in Pennsylvania before repeal; and the Zimmerman bill, amending the beer act, and the Wilson document, increasing permit fees for breweries and distilleries.

After approving on second reading the Scott bill, designed to permit a $14,000,000 state public construction program to be financed on money borrowed from federal authorities, the Senate returned it to committee. The committee is divided over the feasibility of "mortgaging" future taxpayers to permit the commonwealth to borrow $10,000,000 for repayment over a 30-year period.

If you are afraid of giving the wrong silver pattern, you might choose the one stamped by Uncle Sam.

LITVINOFF TO AWAIT ORDERS FROM MOSCOW

an understanding on the principal points at issue in advance of recognition.

Conversations Delayed. Waiting of this word from Moscow is responsible for the fact that no conversations have taken place between Litvinoff and President Roosevelt or the American officials during the past 48 hours.

The Soviet statesman, it was learned, came here with the belief that recognition would be granted first and the problems discussed afterwards.

This has been the policy of the Soviet government in its discussions with other nations relating to recognition. The Soviets have insisted recognition precede settlement of other problems.

President Kalinin, in his reply to Mr. Roosevelt's initial overture, endeavored to make it appear the Soviets took it for granted recognition would be extended first.

Kalinin said there was no doubt difficulties between the two countries could be solved "only when direct relations exist between them."

May Compromise. Litvinoff, it was learned, was considerably surprised when notified this country was not prepared to recognize first and talk afterwards.

Although indicating a willingness to compromise, he pointed out he had not brought a staff of experts and therefore it would be difficult for him to negotiate an understanding on such questions as debts and damage claims.

President Roosevelt, however, maintained his ground and finally Litvinoff agreed to put the matter up to Moscow. He also cabled the president's desire for an understanding to assure protection of Americans who may work in Russia after normal relations are restored, including the right to practice their own religion. No difficulty is expected on this latter point, since other foreign nations in Russia are permitted religious freedom.

TUESDAY KENSINGTON HONORS MRS. HEATON

The Tuesday Kensington ladies entertained yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. H. C. Heaton on Garfield avenue, a recent new member of the organization. She was pleasantly surprised when those assembled honored her with a fruit shower.

PERIL FROM ABOVE

IN New Jersey an airplane operated by the National Guard lost headway and crashed to the ground. It had two occupants, both of whom were killed. Such crashes are not uncommon, and usually the occupants of the fallen machine are, as in this case, killed.

This airplane accident went beyond the accustomed casualties. Instead of falling into a tree or field this airplane crashed into a house occupied by five people. The house was wrecked, then set on fire and all the people within were crushed or burned to death.

There was a forced landing of a plane in a Texas town recently where a similar tragedy was but narrowly averted. The tragedy at Shrewsbury, N. J., has had as a matter of fact, numerous predecessors. As the air fills up with air craft there are sure to be plenty of the same sort.

The reckless driver of an automobile imperils other occupants of the road. There will certainly come a day when no one will be permitted to drive a car who has not given bond, through some form of casualty insurance, to cover the damage he may do. Today airplanes fly over cities freely with a certainty that, if one of them fell, a great destruction of life and property on the ground below would surely result.

It is not too soon to be thinking of proper measures to protect the public as far as possible against the general hazard exemplified in this New Jersey disaster. The prevention must, of course, be as complete as possible. The low flying over cities which frequently makes the airplane a nuisance as well as a menace needs of course, to be entirely prevented. In addition, some form of insurance covering damage such as was done in the New Jersey must be insisted upon.

FARLEY'S FUTURE

Not among the least important of the results of the late election in New York city may be their effect upon the political activities of one James A. Farley, postmaster general of the United States, chairman of the Democratic national committee, head of the New York state Democratic committee and patronage dispenser of the Roosevelt administration.

The defeat of Joseph McKee for mayor for Farley, and one which the latter, no doubt, keenly feels. The postmaster general, chief sponsor of the McKee candidacy, was reported to hope a McKee victory would pave the way for himself to the New York governorship. The white house even was seen as a distant goal.

But all this was changed by the crushing defeat given McKee, and darkness now engulfs the political future of the postmaster general. An effort to oust him from the chairmanship of the New York committee is reported under way and his tenure of the national post is under fire.

There should be a lesson for both Farley and the president in the bitter experience through which the former is passing. It is that pernicious political activity by a postmaster general should be no more permitted than by a village postmaster.

Maybe since Mr. Farley burned his fingers in New York, he will cease his political tours and give more public service in return for the salary the people are paying him as postmaster general.

TARIFF TRUCE DEAD

Keen disappointment is expressed by Secretary Hull at the collapse of the tariff truce entered upon at the outset of the London economic conference, which met such quick disaster.

The final blow was given it by the withdrawal of Great Britain, France, Sweden and Holland already had taken similar action.

Mr. Hull is quoted as saying that he had regarded the truce as the basis on which he hoped to build a rationalized and reduced world tariff structure.

Although the United States remains a signatory, the Washington view is said to be that this country no longer is morally bound to its provisions. Mr. Hull, in deploring the British action in denouncing the accord, might have taken note of the fact that the United States nevertheless was instrumental in bringing the pact into disrepute. One of the factors that caused Britain to withdraw was the continued decline in the exchange value of the dollar due to the Roosevelt monetary policy. Another was the exemption secured by America in adhering to the truce by which this country retained the right to increase tariffs where necessary to the success of the administration's national recovery program. Great Britain, therefore, was placed at a double disadvantage.

It never was expected that much practical value would attach to the truce. Now that the fictitious value it held has been destroyed, each nation will know where it stands in tariff matters and worthwhile efforts may be put forth to solve tariff problems along sound lines.

HAPPY ENDINGS.

I have just finished reading a football story—and I was afraid all through the story that it would have an unhappy ending.

That kind of ending was indicated because it was a story that had to do with the more brutal and cynical phase of college football. And since the evil was so much more powerful than the good, and the decent sportsmanship seemingly so much weaker than the callous commercialism, I couldn't see how the better could possibly triumph over the worse. That does happen sometimes in life, but not often enough to make it a "true picture" of existence.

So, though I read with interest, I prepared myself all the way through for the inevitable unhappy ending. Prepared myself to read the last paragraph and say to myself, "Well, that's the way life too often is, but it may not be that way forever—and at least the hero won a moral victory and he has nothing for which to reproach himself. They were too much for him, that's all."

But the story had a happy ending. The good old coach's team won the game, and the honest old coach got the brutal coach's job. And everybody was happy and everything turned out most properly. . . . And I was greatly relieved. . . . It was fiction, but it was the way I wanted things to be. I could have stood the harsh and bitter reality, but somehow I didn't want to do so. I wanted a happy ending.

And please don't smile at my childishness and immaturity, because that's what you want, too. You want your fiction to be true, but you want your life to be real, but you don't want a happy ending—and so does every other normal human being. We do not wish a false happy ending, but we want a happy ending that is reasonable and possible and MIGHT have happened in just that way. And if this is given to us, we will not examine too closely and criticize too harshly. We will accept it gratefully and wish that things always turned out just this way, because that's what they ought to do.

STEWARDSHIP

I once knew one who said to me, "I merely hold my wealth in fee. By the strange breeze of chance was blown."

Riches I never dreamed to own into my lap—all, all unearned. To gather it no hand I turned. My father once a venture made. And was ten thousand times repaid. Then when he died, it fell to me. One of the town's rich men to be.

Always there hovered on his lip A single word, "Twas stewardship." It lodged within his mind so deep I'm sure it roused him oft from sleep. With duty that he seemed afraid Of pleasure and the comforts which Are well afforded by the rich. He gave great sums man's ills to mend. But little on himself he'd spend.

The cheapest kind of clothes he wore; Ate simple food. At every store He entered, always for himself. He'd purchase from the shoddy shelf. Friends laughed and clerks who knew him whined. And his great wealth made jest of him. Stingy they thought him, since they could Not know his passion to do good. Nor guess the terrifying grip Of that idea: "stewardship."

To church and charity he gave. To hospitals men's lives to save; To any dream or noble plan Which might uplift his fellowman. His gifts were large, but thinking he A faithful steward ought to be. The luxuries all mortals crave. Until himself he never gave. (Copyright, 1933, Edgar A. Guest)

DEFENSE OF YOUTH OF TODAY

You should realize that it is a serious matter to circulate a derogatory report about anyone, especially a young woman or a married woman.

If you are middle aged or older you may be a bit shocked by the talk and actions of the young people of today.

They conduct themselves in a way that surely would have brought censure a generation ago.

For that matter the same was said of youth in whatever generation, by those who were twenty to forty years older at the time.

Perhaps some "bad end" was predicted for you in your early life.

You did as you were daring for that day and age as are the things that seem so unwise and even disgraceful to you today.

But Youth of today is open and above board and probably as clean in mind and spirit as it was when you were young.

There is more freedom of the sexes but can you say truthfully that proper bounds are overstepped any more often today than they were in your time?

Of course you can't. You will find young people generally as clean and virtuous as any you ever knew in those olden times.

Champions Rally To Support Of Recovery Administration

Critics Are Assailed As Partisans Opposed To Reforms Of Unwilling To Await Working Out Of Great Program

Critical comment of late on the National Recovery Administration brings a wave of support for the Administration from editors who believe a great task is being well done and those who insist that the time has not come to question the President's policies.

The ATLANTA JOURNAL says: "The hair splitters may call it unconstitutional, the reactionaries may call it dangerous, the radicals may call it weak, the selfish may seek to evade it and those who resent its success because it is righting the wrongs they winked at may seek to impede its progress. But Americans who love their country wisely and well are marching with President Roosevelt for better times."

Pointing out that "all particular interests oppose the President at some point," the FORT WORTH STAR-TELEGRAM observes that "nobody is for him but the people. The President," adds the Star-Telegram "is laboring both wisely and courageously to carry out the mandate given him by the country. His method is the method of trial and error. It may cost some hardships, mistakes and setbacks. But it is the scientific method. It will prove either that helpful things can be done—in which they will already have been done—or that they can not be done. In either case the result would be immense value to the Nation."

The ROCHESTER TIMES-UNION considers the criticism directed at the President's program far from spontaneous, and asserts that "undoubtedly there are elements in the country which would prefer a continuance of the depression, with all its load of misery and despair, to recovery which would strengthen the President in his demand for reform." It is the belief of this paper, however, that "the people, who have been and always will be his main strength, remain behind our President."

Assailing those who criticize the N. R. A. as "meddlesome" the Portland Oregon Journal regards "shorter hours and higher pay—more pay envelopes and thicker ones," as "the only way to recovery. And that," it tells the public, "is the N. R. A."

"A gratifying development" is the way the ASBURY PARK EVENING PRESS describes the action of the Administration in "approaching its task with scientific accuracy and scholarly experiment instead of dealings in guesses and loose observations."

"The N. R. A. never said it was a cure-all," declares the ROCK ISLAND ARGUS adding, "I never said it could work miracles. But some people thought it could, and said so. Now the reaction is on. But the basic idea of the N. R. A. is good. We hope it can work out its program in spite of difficulties. It would be difficult to substitute a different program."

signed by the delegates until next July; and Maryland's objections, finally yielded to by other colonies, prevented a consummation of the union until March 1781.

1787—The first great public work in the infant republic was completed and opened: a canal named Congowago Falls, on the Susquehanna River, Pennsylvania. A comprehensive system of canals had been undertaken by the states as a vital necessity to the social, economic and political solidarity of the nation.

1805—Capt. Meriwether Lewis, 1st, Inf., U. S. Army, and William Clarke, brother of famed George Rogers Clark, who had set out on July 23, 1803, under orders of President Jefferson to find a route across the continent for the purpose of commerce, reached the Pacific. The Lewis & Clarke expedition in effect won all the territory west of the Mississippi for the U. S.

1846—Peter Ney, a schoolmaster for 27 years in Salisbury, N. C., died; and legend has it that this was Michel Ney, Prince of Messina, ablest of Napoleon's generals, who was supposedly executed in Paris in 1815. The story: Dummy bullets were used by the firing squad; the marshal was smuggled out of France in the expectancy that he would be able to return when Napoleon came back to power; after the emperor's death the marshal resigned himself to permanent exile and school-teaching, at least he conspired the friends, kept his identity secret until the hour of death. There is strong substantiation of this story from a seaman on a U. S. bound ship who had served under Ney, from King Lewis Philippe of France and the dying man's own statements. His grave in Salisbury identifies the man as the marshal, but there is another mound in Paris similarly marked.

1889—The last monarchy on the American continent ended as Emperor Pedro of Brazil was deposed.

1910—An American beauty was elected the first woman member of the British parliament; Lady Nancy Astor.

The Governor Says

What Is Going On In Harrisburg—
And Why

By GIFFORD PINCHOT
Governor of Pennsylvania

The legislature is back in Harrisburg.

Repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment made an extraordinary session absolutely mandatory.

Without control legislation, alcoholic liquors would flow unrestrained and untaxed throughout Pennsylvania in a month. The only possible way to control it is through new laws. Our present liquor legislation automatically dies with the repeal of the amendment.

From both moral and economic standpoints, hard liquor must not go on sale at every street corner and every country crossroad in Pennsylvania. Wets and drys are agreed on that.

And from a tax standpoint, revenues from the manufacture and sale of hard liquor are urgently needed. They are needed for unemployment relief as soon as available funds are exhausted; for repayment of the money we are now borrowing for relief; for schools which will close up if they do not get help; and for grants to the indigent aged.

Liquor control and taxation, and the various problems bound up in those issues, are vitally important to the welfare of the people of Pennsylvania. There can be no argument about that. And there should be little argument about details of control, because at a series of conferences with political leaders, dry leaders and wet leaders, differences on essential points were ironed out.

As I said in my message to the legislature, it seems to be agreed that the saloon must not come back;

that liquor must not be sold without restraint; that private profit from liquor must be reduced to the minimum; that sale not for consumption on the premises must be in the hands of the state; that the judges must not be dragged back into liquor politics; that the price of liquor must be kept low enough to discourage bootlegging by making it unprofitable; that the principle of local option must be embodied in the liquor law; and that liquor must be taxed heavily enough to yield large revenue to the state but not heavily enough to encourage bootlegging.

But there are other subjects of almost equal importance that ought to be dealt with at the extra session and dealt with promptly.

I refer particularly to the necessity for revamping our statutes so as to enable Pennsylvania to co-operate fully with the National Recovery Administration. Our laws must be changed so that Pennsylvania can apply for and meet the conditions necessary for receiving federal grants of money for public works. And we must take other necessary steps to legalize and assist in promoting full co-operation with the National Recovery program.

The call I sent out contains thirteen subjects. In the interest of a short, fruitful session I wish I could have made them fewer. But even as it was, I had to exclude a number of things which large groups of our people appealed to me to include.

Granting that there will be honest differences of opinion on some of the subjects in the call, there is nothing in it which gives the slightest excuse for political log-rolling; there is nothing in the call that cannot be acted upon speedily; and there is nothing in the call that is not necessary.

I feel positive that the people of Pennsylvania are going to be quick to applaud the men who work together in this session for the common good. And I believe, too, that the people will be as quick to censure any who might try to use this session of the legislature for venting personal spite or personal ambition; or for political maneuvering of any kind.

Recent events point out clearly that the people of Pennsylvania are determined that private interests shall not be served at the expense of the public good.

There is one thing upon which all eyes should be trained—the public good. There is one thing upon which all backs should be turned—the private interest opposed to the public good. We can solve every problem quickly and efficiently if we tackle it on its merits, and on its merits alone.

Unselfish public service—with political and personal prejudices forgotten—is just what we need just now.

Last year the Red Cross distributed 10,500,000 barrels of flour and 104,000,000 garments to the needy in the United States.

Conneaut Park Is Now In Bank's Hands, Future Is Uncertain

Conneaut Lake park passed into the hands of the Peoples-Pittsburgh Trust company, mortgagor, yesterday when its real and personal property was held at orders of the United States district court.

The bid price was fixed at $35,000 plus due taxes of approximately $10,000, but free of receivers' obligations. The park had been operated as a receivership by R. J. McDonald for several years but steadily decreasing business and increasing obligations made the sale necessary. It is expected by many persons that the bank will engage someone to operate it next summer.

The property disposed of includes all the hotels, concessions and other buildings and the land upon which the park is located.

The Conneaut Lake golf course property is owned by a Meadville bank and was not included in the sale.

A CLEAR COMPLEXION

Ruddy cheeks—sparkling eyes—most women can have. Dr. F. M. Edwards for 20 years treated scores of women for liver and bowel ailments. During these years he gave his patients a substitute for calomel made of a few well-known vegetable ingredients, naming them Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets. Know them by their olive color.

These tablets are wonder-workers on the liver and bowels, causing a normal action, carrying off the waste and poisonous matter in one's system.

If you have a pale face, sallow look, dull eyes, pimples, coated tongue, headaches, a listless, no-good feeling, all out of sorts, inactive bowels, take one of Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets nightly for a time and note the pleasing results.

Senator Reed Leaves Warning At Philadelphia

Reed Contends That Voters Are Tired Of Being Cogs In Political Machines

(International News Service)
HARRISBURG, Nov. 15.—Republican party leaders considered the warning left with them today by United States Senator David A. Reed who admitted independent thinking by voters caused losses suffered by Republicans in Philadelphia, Pittsburgh and other sections of the state a week ago.

Contending that voters are opposed to being cogs in political machines, Reed emphasized the need for an appeal to the independents if the Republican party wants to win the gubernatorial, senatorial and other fights of 1934.

"More people are thinking independently now than ever before, and it's to that group of citizens we must make our appeal if we are going to win," he asserted.

Parents Of Young Kidnaping Victim Have Collapsed

Long Hours Of Weary Waiting Proves Too Much For Anxious Parents

(International News Service)
SAN JOSE, Cal., Nov. 15.—Collapsing from the long hours of fear for their kidnaped son, Mr. and Mrs. Alex J. Hart today were under the care of physicians in their palatial home here as the hunt for the 22-year-old youth, Brooke L. Hart, continued on several fronts.

At the home, the father, wealthy department store owner, had all paths of communication open for the abductors, who made away with young Hart, Santa Clara University graduate and vice president of the Hart store, last Thursday, telephoning from San Francisco that a $40,000 ransom would be demanded, and then vanishing.

It was believed that in some manner the kidnapers had warned the Hart family that no further communication relative to paying the ransom and releasing the victim would be attempted until representatives of the law stepped aside.

In line with his published promise, to hold all communications "confidential" the elder Hart had members of his family answering the telephone and the door with department of justice agents and deputy sheriffs, who had been performing these functions, nowhere in sight.

ities should dictate to the GOP a period of quiet contemplation and self-effacement. The people of the country are not yet ready to forgive and forget. In time of course it is inevitable that there will be a swing back in the other direction, but the time is not yet ripe. A vast majority of the people, including millions of Republicans who voted for Mr. Hoover, prefer to give the administration a chance to make good."

THE PASADENA STAR-NEWS likewise believes that the time is not ripe for a Republican onslaught and finds that "responsible Republican leaders are generous in supporting President Roosevelt in his recovery program. They patriotically are refraining from raising capacious political issues," continues the Star-News. "In this crucial period of national history."

On the other hand the NEW YORK TIMES says that, "some of the utterances of the advisers keep deep in the President's confidence, and some of the courses which he latterly has been following, have made it exceedingly difficult for captains of industry and leaders of commerce to plan their affairs far ahead" and hopes that the President "will soon take occasion to reassure those of his fellow-citizens who feel that thus far he has left them groping." The BALTIMORE SUN notes that "the activities of the N. R. A. have aroused resentment among individualistic Americans." The SANTA MONICA EVENING OUTLOOK calls attention to the fact that "without local sentiment and local co-operation, enforcement is impossible. Voluntary action and voluntary cooperation" it believes "ought to be emphasized and threats and intimidations are kept well in the background."

THE SPRINGFIELD UNION declares that "However well intentioned artificial devices of the Government may be and however helpful they may be in any particular, such as the elimination of unfair practices or competition the conclusion that is likely to grow out of prolonged experience with them is that, after all, government aid is not worth what it costs."

The WALL STREET JOURNAL finds that "the disposition of official Washington has either swung away from compulsion and in the direction of persuasive leadership, or has become better understood as having been actually founded upon a preference for leading over driving from the first. In either case" concludes the Journal, "the result is a distinctly brighter prospect for that practical and effective cooperation between government and industry without which lasting recovery is not to be had."

Americanization Meeting Tuesday

Classes Are Beginning Winter Work With English Class For Women Weekly

Tuesday evening the board of directors of the Americanization Society of the Neighborhood House met at the home of Mrs. Charles Greer, president, North Jefferson street.

Reports were given by the various members and Miss Christine Butler, welfare worker, gave her report of progress at the house. She said that Dr. C. C. Green had secured Mrs. Edwin Tinsman to teach the women's English class, which is held Monday and Thursday evenings to teach the foreign women the English language. Miss Anna Aiken has taught this class the past thirteen years, but other duties prevent her from taking the class this winter.

The Phalanx boys have begun their activities among the boys this winter and 120 boys were present at the meeting last week. A Junior Christian Endeavor has been organized also.

Miss Violet Shuler has taken over the music class for a few weeks. The Sunday school is growing and now has an average attendance of more than 100 each Sunday afternoon. The school also takes part in the Sunday evening and Wednesday evening services, which are conducted by Edwin Schmidt.

Miss Laura Marquis gave a nice gift of books for the library and Mrs. T. A. Preston a number of magazines. A gift of Schofield Bibles was received for use in the Sunday school.

Miss Butler appeals to the people of the city for more books for the library, the children are incessant readers and most of the books are greatly worn from so much handling. Any books suitable for boys or girls will be greatly appreciated. She also asks for material to be used in the sewing classes; any kind of pieces of new material can be utilized in training the little fingers to stitches.

Mrs. Mary Balph's Bible class of women will begin the winter activities with a tureen dinner in the Neighborhood House Thursday at 1:30, when each woman attending will bring a dish of her native food.

Friday evening a group of children from the Neighborhood House will take part in a program at the home of Mrs. Grant Fisher, Adams street, when the Frances Willard W. C. T. U. meets.

Squire Cooper Keeps Active In Spite Of Years

Popular South Side Alderman Amazes By His Diverse Activities

Despite the fact that Squire J. Lee Cooper, of East Long avenue, is well past the three score and ten mark, he is not content to sit idly by.

No, Sir! The squire keeps busily engaged in some activity constantly, when his time is not required by his duties in the South Side court of justice.

Doing carpentry work, sweeping the snow, working in his garden, mending the roof, and a host of other little duties are a part of the day by day program of the squire, in addition to giving out kindly advice to many of the district.

During the 22 years as alderman, squire Cooper has performed many marriages, and has presided over many cases in which infractions of the law were at stake. He has been a popular alderman.

Home Relief Loan Work Is Costly

Twelve To Fourteen Thousand Employees Already On Rolls Of Corporation

By ARTHUR C. WIMER
Special Washington Correspondent
New Castle News

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15.—Apparently mortgage relief loans to home owners are coming high to Uncle Sam.

According to most recent figures available, the Home Owners Loan Corporation has actually closed loans on 4694 pieces of real estate. These loans total $14,240,000 or an average of $3024. With an army of between 12,000 and 14,000 employees drawing either fees or salaries from the Corporation, expenditures have amounted to the face value of the loans made, the cost per loan being approximately the amount per loan.

Corporation officials contend that the cost of this home aid will be greatly reduced. They point out that to date much effort has been spent on organization and that from now on the administrative costs will become smaller in relation to loans made simply because loans will be made more rapidly.

Catholic Priest Is Heard By Kiwanis

'Religious Discrimination' Topic Of Father Doerr At Luncheon

A scholarly address on "Religious Discrimination—What Can We Do About It?" was delivered by Father Joseph A. Doerr, pastor of St. Joseph's Catholic church, South Jefferson street, before the Kiwanis Club at its luncheon in The Castleton today.

After an academic treatment of the possible misunderstandings that arise between different religious faiths, Father Doerr, in closing his address, said:

"You may disagree with my premises, but you will know that they are premises and not prejudices. You will realize that I am not consciously tied to a superstition; that I have tried to rationalize my position; that in my own mind it is a part of a general scheme of life. And realization of things like this may make it easier to be tolerant."

"I have tried to say that, in my opinion, we get furthest when we try to make allowances for the whole culture or attitude toward life in which those around us have been reared. I have tried to say, quite frankly, that, as far as Catholics are concerned, their culture is fundamentally the antithesis of the culture of the modern world; that this is implicit, almost instinctive in our daily intercourse with our fellow Americans; that it governs many of impulses and reactions to modern social and civic problems. And I have tried to illustrate, casually, how it operates to bring about misunderstanding between Americans who are Catholics and Americans who are not."

The Kiwanians completed plans today for their ladies' night program, which is to be held at the Mahoning Grange on Wednesday evening, Nov. 22. There will be no luncheon meeting next week.

Governors Hear Relief Program

Representatives Of Many States At Washington To Learn Hopkins Plan

RELIEF ROLL MEN TO BE EMPLOYED

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, Nov. 15.—Governors, state and municipal officials of more than half the states, numbering nearly 500, gathered here today to hear federal relief plans for the winter. The undertaking involves the expenditure of $400,000,000 of the public works administration fund and the employment of 10,000,000 persons now on various relief rolls.

Harry L. Hopkins, federal relief administrator, explained the government's plan of cooperation with the states, cities and other political subdivisions in its effort to reduce the number of idle, remove them from charity lists, and give them the opportunity of becoming self sustaining.

It was expected the number of visiting officials would include 20 governors and 150 mayors. During the day they will gather at the White House to be greeted by President Roosevelt.

The relief program is to be conducted under the direction of the new civil works administration to be set up in cities and counties. These bodies in most cases are to be made up from the rolls of persons already in charge of unemployment relief work or similar offices.

The plan proposes to spread the expenditure of the federal fund over the period of four months, spending approximately $100,000,000 federal money monthly, supplemented by funds available from state, municipal and other local sources.

RAUSCH AND ZALICK ADMIT MORE ROBBERIES

Accused Pair Admit Charges

Other Members Of Families Plead "Not Guilty" In House Robberies

ALL ARE HELD FOR DECEMBER COURT

Guilty pleas to five additional charges of breaking and entering by Walter Rausch and George Zalick, alleged leaders of the robbery gang rounded up by authorities here, when they faced Alderman James C. Brice yesterday on charges brought by residents whose homes in the North Hill and Walmo section were burglarized.

Rausch and Zalick pleaded guilty only the day before to two other robberies before Alderman O. H. P. Green, who held them for court in December.

The pair, freely admitting the numerous thefts with which they are charged, did not testify yesterday at the hearing. However, in statements given earlier to state police, they confessed their participation in the lootings.

Others Plead Not Guilty Along with Rausch and Zalick yesterday were Mrs. Walter Rausch, Donald and Clyde, and Mrs. George Zalick. Zalick's wife, all of whom face four charges of "receiving stolen goods."

The wives and Rausch's sons pleaded "not guilty" to the charges, but Alderman Brice held them for the December term of court on $1,000 bail each. In default of bail they were remanded to the county jail.

Alderman Brice held both Rausch and Zalick for the December court under $1,000 bail on each of the five charges facing them, a total of $5,000 apiece.

Home owners who testified that property belonging to them had been uncovered in the loot of the gang all of whom placed charges of "breaking and entering," were Lafayette E. Royston, Raymond F. Earl, George E. Miles, Frances E. Conner and George Richardson.

All seven defendants were taken to jail following the hearing.

By ARTHUR C. WIMMER, Special Washington Correspondent, New Castle News

The department recently completed a survey to determine the fifty leading counties in sweet corn production. Within this category is included Allegheny, Bucks, York, and Lancaster counties in the Keystone state.

York county ranks first of the Pennsylvania counties and thirteenth in the nation, with 4,172 acres devoted to sweet corn in 1930. Value of the sweet corn crop in the county totaled $167,325. Bucks county comes second in the country with 4,041 acres in sweet corn and a crop valued at $200,216.

Allegheny county ranks third in the nation, with 3,140 acres in sweet corn. The corn crop of the county, however, was valued at $209,659, boosting the county to thirteenth in the country in this respect. Lancaster county comes fourth in the Keystone state and forty-seventh in the country, having 2,188 acres in sweet corn and a crop worth $129,597.

Hickory Township Dispute To Be Aired Officially; Fraud Alleged

Rainey Against Permanent Code

Says Normal Trade Of World Would End NRA Codes In United States

(International News Service) WASHINGTON, Nov. 15.—The NRA can be abolished if nations of the world resume their normal commercial intercourse—and not before—Speaker Henry T. Rainey of the house said today.

He coupled his declaration with a prediction that tariff barriers would continue to dry up world trade and perhaps bring continuance of governmental control over business thru the NRA for years.

Lines already are forming for a battle over making the NRA, which was limited to two years by law, permanent. The fight is expected to come to the fore as congress convenes in January.

Rainey declared the administration feels it must control over-production in American industries, and can only do so through the NRA. "I hope the NRA won't be permanent," said Rainey. "Nobody likes these restrictions. They only submit to them because of necessity."

New Road Will Be Extensive Project

Highway From Grove City To Volant Requires Two New Bridges

GROVE CITY, Pa., Nov. 15.—The 12 miles of road being built between here and Volant is divided into three sections by the engineers of the state highway department who are in charge of construction. From Volant to the Perry Highway is the first section; from that highway to the Butler Pike is the second; from Center Church near Grove City to the pike is the third.

Almost half of the mileage from Grove City to Leesburg will be built on preeminent land. This is necessary to straighten out the curves and secure the needed width to the route.

Two new bridges will have to be built as result of this re-located highway. The federal government is paying for the road out of its self liquidating fund. The construction is in charge of the Mercer County unit of state road builders of which John Greer is superintendent.

Many Activities At West Side School

At the West Side school the members of the faculty believe they have one of the best organized schools in the city.

The feature organization of the school is the geography club, under the supervision of Miss Theresa Cover.

The sixth graders, who make up this club, have named one club the "All Year Round Club" and the other the "West Side Kiddies' Club." William Procter is president of the All Year Round Club, while Jack Kerr heads the other club. Every Wednesday morning the two organizations meet at different times. Some 64 boys and girls make up the geography clubs. At the meetings parliamentary procedure is carried out.

Every week the pupils select some topic that will be presented at the next meeting. When the secretary of the club calls out the roll, every student is expected to say something pertaining to the subject selected. Last week the clubs selected "Chile" as their subject.

Should a person be interested in knowing the progress of civilization, all he would have to do is to visit the geography room of the West Side school. Decorating the walls of the room are pictures, some drawn by the pupils, in which the progress of civilization is shown. The geography students have constructed a miniature farm on a sand table, which is clever.

A replica of an Indian village is another good piece of work done by the boys and girls.

The nature study classes are studying birds and trees. Miss Elsie Kivine, who is in charge of the dramatic end of the school, announced Tuesday that on Friday evening the sixth graders will present a play in the public library.

Miss Kivine stated that on November 27 at eight o'clock a Thanksgiving program will be staged in the West Side school.

The art department, under the direction of Miss Sophronia Lower, is interesting in the West Side school. Since the opening of school the art classes have made wall hanging and stick prints on covered boxes. With Christmas only a little more than a month away, the boys and girls are preparing to make Christmas gifts. Wall paper will be used in making these gifts.

Garage On Cherry Street Is Base Of War Against Winter

H. W. Lightner And Men Kept Busy Clearing Highways For Traffic

The department of highways garage on East Cherry street is the Lawrence county headquarters for the commonwealth's fight against Old Man Winter.

Although the old man has gained considerable ground by his surprise attack of yesterday, the state highway men are still ahead and have made a counter charge with snow plows, storm fences and cinders.

It is the job of H. W. Lightner and his crew to keep the highways clear and safe for travel—and that is just what they are doing, despite the onslaught of snow which has been flaking down steadily from the skies. There was considerable drifting over the night and the snow plows attached to the noses of a squadron of husky trucks are being kept busy today.

Accident Victim Able To Be About

Miss Rilla Broom, of West Washington street, was able to be out Tuesday for the first time after the automobile accident of nearly two weeks ago in which she was injured. The accident occurred at Pulaski on a foggy night when the automobile in which Miss Broom was a passenger crashed into the side of train which was resting at a standstill there. Miss Louise Wetlich, of North Cedar street, another passenger, was slightly injured. Miss Broom, who went through the windshield of the car, received severe cuts and bruises. She was taken to the Buhl hospital at Sharon for treatment then to her home the same night.

Foodstuffs Will Be Presented As Admittance Fee

"An Olde English Revel" tonight beginning at 7:30 o'clock in the Guild Room of Trinity Church for the benefit of homeless, penniless, friendless men who are cared for at St. Barnabas' House-by-the-Lake, North East, Pa., is under the leadership of the Young Peoples' Fellowship. The admittance is at least one can of food stuffs or a package of dry groceries. Products packed in glass cannot be handled because of the risk in shipping. True to the spirit of New Castle, the Y. P. F. are asking for things put in tin. A sketch fee to all for the above price of admittance will be given at 9 p. m. together with musical selections.

In an effort to win the price of a ton of coal for the Home, the Y. P. F. are offering a lot of attractions. They include a "Side Show," a Punch and Judy Show, "For Men Only," a "Country Grocery," "Plymouth Rock," "Fortune Telling," "A Grab Bag," and other like features which will insure a hearty laugh for all who will come to help a great charity.

Senior Girls' Club Have Dance Friday

Friday night is an important one to the members of the senior high school Girl Reserve club. It will bring the annual Girl Reserve fall dance to the gymnasium of the Y. W. C. A., and all members of the senior club and their chosen partners will be there.

The dance this year will be strictly for the club members, their partners, and a few invited guests, no others.

Very clever programs are being made. Decorations for the gymnasium are about ready to be placed.

Disease Of Blood Proves Fatal For Edward N. Hurley

Prominent Financier And Industrialist Dies Of Leukemia, In Chicago Hospital

(International News Service)
CHICAGO, Nov. 15.—Leukemia, rare disease of the blood, caused the sudden death of Edward N. Hurley, Sr., prominent industrialist, financier and head of the United States shipping board during the war, physicians disclosed today.

Hurley died at Passavant hospital last night after a brief two days illness that became critical only a few hours before death. He was 69 years old.

A sudden attack of pneumonia complicated the blood disease caused by destruction of the red corpuscles, his physicians said, returning from a conference at Washington Sunday night, Hurley, who was a member of the industrial and labor boards under the NRA, complained of a slight cold. It developed into pneumonia yesterday and he was hurried to the hospital.

The buy-more movement seems to be favored by everybody except the indifferent duchess behind the counter.
